Jazz Dance Hits Sweden, Where There Are No Blue Laws and Liquor Traffic Is Sanely Regulated—Cuba in Fine Condition for Financial Regeneration.

By Roger Batchelder.

"The jazz dance craze has recently hit Sweden," according to Tom Bjorklund, an advertising man of Stockholm.

"At least fifteen big restaurants offer the inducement of American jazz music, played by skilful orchestras, to prospective patrons, and afternoon 'jazz teas' supplement the regular Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday evening dances. There are no blue laws in Sweden, you know," he explained.

Mr. Bjorklund said that while prohibition had slight chance of obtaining a foothold in his country, certain liquor restrictions had been in force for some years.

"Sweden's liquor supply is controlled under the so-called 'Bratt system,' named after its originator, who corresponds to our mild type of dry leaders," he went on. "To obtain strong liquor the head of each household must apply to the Government for a pass book, which entitles him to purchase a small amount monthly. Only citizens of good character, who have paid their taxes and otherwise performed their civic duties, are eligible to take advantage of this privilege. One pass book alone is given a family; if there are several grown sons they must maintain their own separate households to get books."

"The regulations are not unpleasantly drastic, however. If an extra supply is needed for the celebration of a birthday or other holiday the authorities will accede to reasonable requests. One can obtain almost as much light wine as he wishes, and there are no restrictions whatsoever on beer and ale."

"And how about bootleggers?" we asked.

"We have some of them," he admitted. "They ply the trade in the streets and approach those who they think would like to get more than their legal quota of liquors."

MORE "MISSING JOOLS."

Another of the frequent jewel disappearance mysteries in hotels has been solved. A month ago Mrs. William H. Emory of Washington, then at the Majestic, reported the loss of a diamond ring valued at $600. She had left it on the dressing table the night before and did not think of it until the following morning while at breakfast. When she returned to her room she could find no trace of it, and the hotel was searched without success.

Last week the mystery was solved—by Mrs. Emory herself. She found the ring in tissue paper in the case of an electric lamp which she uses while travelling.

On removing the paper to set up the lamp again she found the ring safely embedded in its folds.

WHY CUBA IS BROKE.

"Governmental extravagance in the days before the present political regime and the low price of sugar are responsible for Cuba's unfortunate economic situation to-day," remarked George Flynn of Havana, at the Baltimore. "But the island will return to normal conditions after a time, as soon as proper economy is practiced. 'Cuba has no paper money and no bank notes, except those of the United States,' he went on. 'The fact that she has not resorted to the printing press to inflate her finances is a hopeful sign and will make speedy improvement easy.'"

"THOSE TERRIBLE GASOLINE WAGONS."

"On seeing the remarkable display of automobiles at the show which is now in progress I could not help wondering at the very short time in which the industry has developed," said H. G. Parker of Detroit, at the Commodore. "The railroads, telegraph, cable and many other modern conveniences are very recent, but even in my boyhood they were well established elements in the life of the day."

"It was not so long ago, however, that the automobile was regarded as a freakish contrivance—something which would always be a nuisance. The people who drove in them were called foolhardy and fit subjects for the alienist. Several of my friends, who now own at least one car each, told me then that they would be 'ashamed to be seen in one of those things,' and that they certainly would never own one."

"The taxicab, now remarkable only when one cannot be found within a few blocks, has put the horse out of business in fifteen years. Even more recently than that, people in the smaller towns rode in cabs rather than subject themselves to the perils of a motor ride. This world is changing rapidly, but the automobile has outstripped all else. I do not believe that even the aeroplane will be able to develop and provide equal comfort and safety in the same length of time."

COMFORT NOW THE REQUISITE.

"I am impressed by the apparent fact that speed is no longer a selling point of a car," declared P. C. Morris of Baltimore, at the McAlpin. "A few years ago the salesman nodded knowingly toward the speedometer, and asked only for the opportunity to let her out in the country, for the prospective customer's benefit. Today the salesman does not mention the number of miles per hour which his car can cover; instead, he speaks of mileage without repairs, points to the soft cushions, the cigar lighter and vanity case in the limousine and remarks on the style and lines of his offering. That is a good indication, in my opinion, and proves that drastic laws and the demands of sanity have eliminated the speed peril."

FARTHEST FROM HOME.

The "New Yorker for a Day or Two" who is farthest from home today is Henry A. Ward, who is at the Pennsylvania. His home town, Wellington, New Zealand, is over 15,000 miles from Broadway.

Madge—I didn't give it away. I exchanged it for another one and an ice-cream soda.

BIG TINPLATE PURCHASES.

Standard Oil Orders Believed to Total $3,502,000.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has ordered 750,000 boxes of tinplate for its Bayonne plant, the largest order of tinplate in several months. The price was not made public, but the market quotation is $4.75 per box. At this price the order would amount to $3,562,500.

It was reported that the United States Steel Corporation received more than half the order, the rest going to makers throughout the country. The plate is to be used in making containers to ship oil abroad. An investigation was made of the tinplate market in Wales, but it was found purchases could be more advantageously made in this country. The Texas Company has placed orders for 30,000 boxes of tinplate for use at its plant in Port Arthur, Tex.

REVEAL SECRET MARRIAGE.

Cornell Student and Outstanding Girl Wedded Since Oct. 29.

It became known yesterday that Jack Bacon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bacon, of McKee Avenue, Tarrytown, and Miss Mary Alden Pierson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Pierson, of Ossining, were married at Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 29 last.

The news was broken to his parents by young Bacon, a sophomore at Cornell. His father is a prominent architect in New York. Miss Pierson's father is President of the Board of Education of Ossining and a florist. Both have been forgiven.

CITY HALL REPORTERS' ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS.

At the annual meeting of the City Hall Reporters' Association yesterday the following were elected officers: President, Vincent Tanzola, Brooklyn Standard Union; Vice President, Harry D. Kingsbury, Tribune; Secretary-Treasurer, Fred H. Adams, New York City News Association; members of Executive Committee, Alfred W. Pierce, Sun; James L. Durkin, Evening Telegram; Daniel A. Brown, Evening World; and Clarence C. Worden, Brooklyn Standard Union. The annual dinner of the association will be held at the Hotel Astor March 4.
